

Coming Soon to Saba!! Underwater Photography Workshop by Mauricio Handler

Sea Saba Dive Center has always prided itself on providing more than just your average dive trip. In addition to an emphasis on safety, conservation, education, and of course excellent customer service both above and below the surface; we are pleased to welcome back the Handler Photography Workshop again this year. Mauricio Handler is a professional photo journalist, expedition leader, author and educator who was last on Saba in July 2009, and is excited to return to the Unspoiled Queen. Mauricio's stunning terrestrial and underwater images have graced the pages of many diving and travel magazines, several leading newspapers and National Geographic publications worldwide. His photography expeditions and workshops are considered by many to be some of the most complete and intense weeks of learning to advance their photographic skills.

'Mauricio's passion, knowledge, and teaching greatly advanced my photography and permanently changed the way I perceive the world around me.'

Joel Albertson, Alaska

SLR users of all levels, from keen amateur to professional, as well as those with higher end 'point and shoot' cameras; will be able to develop their skills and soak up plenty of Mauricio's extensive experience, with both group and one on one time. Covering subjects such as composition, lighting, macro and wide angle photography, Mauricio will also discuss digital workflow and post-processing techniques, plus developing your own personal vision, a vital aspect in making the transition from taking a great photo to creating an extraordinary image. Mauricio's goal is to increase his students' knowledge by sharing his distinctive vision which he attributes to over two decades in the field, and to empower them with new tools for unique and innovative creations.
